Nations Form Anti-Global Warming Body

Paris, France (AHN) - Forty-five nations came together in Paris Saturday to form an anti-global warming body. Noticeably absent was the United States, widely regarded as the world's biggest polluter, as well as other nations known for pollution, China and India.

French President Jacques Chirac called for the creation of the body after a report was released that claimed global warming was "very likely" caused by mankind. Chirac said some countries are refusing to accept the consequences of their actions.

The body is set to hold its first meeting in Morocco in the spring. There's still a question over whether or not the body will have the power to enforce global climate accords.

The Bush administration has steadfastly refused to accept imposed cuts on greenhouse gases. Chirac warned the United States in a published interview that the country could face carbon taxes on its exports if it did not sign global climate accords.

The United Nations is considering taking up the global warming issue. The U.N. may host a summit of world leaders on the subject.
